On 21st May 2016 thanks to the global initiative we commemorate World Fish Migration Day – WFMD.

World Fish Migration Day is focused on the need of river connection restoration for healthier fish population and more productive rivers. It is bringing the issue of migratory fish to the general public as well as individuals who influence policy, fisheries and water management. For raising awareness and creating commitments leading to a healthier rivers it is necessary to change attitudes, to progress in restoring water flows and to avoid mistakes when changing the character of rivers.

At this occasion there will be various activities organised for public which will be connected together by logo and main idea of WFMD 2016: „Connecting fish, rivers and people“.
